IS IT TIME FOR A NEW EASTER FLOWER???

I know the Lilly has much to make it appealing at Easter. It's beautiful. It's white, reminding us of forgiveness. The trumpet shape is like a coronet blaring out good news. It rises above the ground like Jesus did. And, it really is a cool flower.

But, in some ways the Lily is a fake. For one thing, it's not really a spring flower. Florists have to 'trick' it into blooming at exactly the right time. And, those wonderful petals are extremely fragile. They last about as long as those hot cross buns on Easter morning.

How about a change? Consider...the resurrection pansy? Nope. Or, the Easter Rose? Close, but no cigar. I know.... the indestructible dandelion. Why are you laughing? I'm serious. The dandelion. Nice yellow color, blooms automatically, practically indestructible. Ask any homeowner or lawn care person. You just can't kill them. I've seen dandelions burst through the driveway asphalt, as Jesus burst through the tomb door. It is a beautiful, amazing flower (well some of my neighbors don't think so!). As amazing as the dandelion is, the best thing it could do would be to remind us that Easter is more than a wonderful story to be told once a year.

The Easter promise is more than good news for some distant day beyond death. The Easter message proclaims "He is Risen!" The Satan-beating tomb-busting, hope-inspiring Savior is Alive. He lives; so we live.

What does it all mean? Because Jesus rose, walls crumble, hearts change, lives are transformed, and eternity is guaranteed. Jesus took away the stench of death, the fear of sin, and the power of Satan. We have a place in Heaven reserved for us. We have hope. We will rise from this planet to the skies with angelic escorts sent by God.

So, look all around on April 20th, Easter Sunday, and the weeks and months that follow. The lilies will be long gone while the "Easter" dandelion will remind us that Jesus is victorious and so are we! Spread the Word! (like a dandelion! ;-)
